Hi Rachel,

My state contract has been stalled because the woman I was working with (b) (6). Hoping to restart that project in February. My understanding is that Oregon cities and counties would be able to piggy back on the contract if they are part of the Washington purchasing network. Not sure if the state itself is part of that network? <http://www.ga.wa.gov/Purchase/3co-op.htm>

I have attached the previous biennia's spreadsheets. Note that a couple of the projects spanned fiscal years so some of the costs will be in one spreadsheet and some in the next (Northern Retriever, Drydocks, Cactus come to mind). I'm glad that you are finding it useful. I'll be interested to see what you develop.

Hope you enjoy your time off. I will be in the field on the 24th and 25th and maybe part of the 26th so probably best to talk on Monday or Friday of that week.

Melissa,

Happy New Year! I wanted to check and see how it was going with setting up state contracts for abandoned vessel removal. I am researching the process here, but if I recall correctly, you said that we (Oregon) might be able to use the same RFP that you put together? Is that right, and if so, could you share what you have? I will be out of the office all of next week, so there is no rush on this. Maybe we could chat when I get back the week of January 23.

Thank you again for sharing your abandoned/ derelict vessel data. I have almost finished my analysis, and I will run it by you before I share it with my agency. If you could send the budget spreadsheets for the previous years, I might be able to fill in some of the blank "total cost" fields in the removal spreadsheet. Again no rush on that. I haven't done any analysis of range of costs, removal costs per foot length, etc. (yet), but I did make some charts of the characteristics of vessels in your dataset, such as length, age, hull type, use (commercial vs recreational), etc.

Cheers,
